

RESOURCE

OF

LOCAL PROJECTS

DEVELOPED IN VIRGINIA

August, 1998

The State Executive Council and State Management Team of the Comprehensive Services Act for At-Risk Youth and Their Families, are pleased to provide you with a copy of the Resource Listing of Local Projects Developed in Virginia.

This document was developed to:

- recognize and highlight the efforts of localities to meet the needs of at-risk youth and families in their communities
- contribute to networking among localities so that they can share ideas about funding and programming

The data was obtained through a survey of CPMT chairs by the Virginia Institute of Government in January 1997 and further refined under the direction of the Training and Technical Assistance Workgroup of the State Management Team. As with any printed document, changes may have already occurred in the programs included in this listing. For the most current and detailed information the program should be contacted directly.

We realize that this is not an exhaustive list of the projects and programs designed for at-risk youth and their families in Virginia, but merely a first step in compiling a more inclusive list. A revised edition is scheduled to be published in the fall of 1999. If there is a program you would like to have included or want to update a currently listed program, submit the information by August 15, 1999, on the form found in the Appendix of this document to:

Introduction

The State Management Team's Training and Technical Assistance Work Group is proud to present this Resource Listing of Local Projects Developed in Virginia. This effort is the result of the collaboration of several different agencies and groups across the state, among them:

- The Virginia Institute of Government (VIG), in partnership with the National Association of Partners in Education (NAPE), who initially surveyed localities in January of 1997.
- The Virginia Institute for Social Services Training Activities (VISSTA) at Virginia Commonwealth University, especially Candace Rowland, Ph.D. Student, and Linda Gupta, Child Welfare Curriculum Specialist, who, with the Training and Technical Assistance Work Group, designed the initial format for cataloging this information and began the process of data entry.
- The Office of Comprehensive Services, in particular, Sue Ann Morgan, who contributed her extensive knowledge of programs throughout Virginia.
- The Hampton CSA office, in particular, Mike Terkeltaub, CSA Coordinator, and Ron Grett, BSW student. Mike contributed his time and expertise in formulating questions for the follow up phone survey and in supervising the work of his BSW student; Ron completed the phone surveys and data entry of information from each locale that responded.
- The VISSTA Area Training Center in Hampton for completing the final formatting, and editing of the document.
- Finally, we were impressed by the willingness of local program developers to share their successes and to provide training and technical assistance to other localities.

Data was obtained via a survey of CPMT chairs conducted by the Virginia Institute of Government (VIG) in 1997. Respondents were asked to "list an example of a new program, service, or process developed in your community since the implementation of CSA" and to describe the effectiveness of those efforts. We listed 56 programs in 23 geographic areas. As we became more involved with the survey, other non-CSA funded programs came to our attention and we also included those. Follow-up calls were made in the spring of 1998 to those individuals listed as contact persons in an attempt to verify the data. Not all contacts responded prior to publication. This is only the beginning. We continue to hear from localities who want to share their successes and contribute to our list of resources. Programs include group homes, wraparound services, in-home services, parent training and education, school-based services, summer programs and more.

While all localities were contacted in the initial survey by VIG, not all responded. Thus, we realize that this listing is not exhaustive. It is our hope that this Resource Listing will encourage networking among localities and provide potential trainers and/or resource persons for technical assistance. It is also our hope that future editions will contain even more examples of the innovative and creative programming developing throughout the state. We encourage readers to directly contact the individuals listed for each program for more information.

We are proud to have been part of this process to share with localities state wide these examples of our desire and vision to provide quality, cost-effective services that are child-centered, family-focused, and community-based.
